A Board is accountable for the organization

BOARDS BENEFIT FROM PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT TOO

The Board of Directors plays a critical role in the strategic direction and success of many organizations. In addition to setting its vision and strategy, it's accountable for all of the organization's activities, including finance, operations and management.

And yet, while we take for granted that our staff members benefit from regular professional development, we often fail to provide opportunities for our board members.

We offer customized workshops to organizations interested in building their board's capacity. Whether you're transitioning from advisory to policy governance, or need training around financial stewardship, we have a module that can help build your board's capacity.

Inspire your Board to meet today's challenges

WORKSHOP OUTCOMES

At the end of the session, you'll have some tools and strategies to help you:

- Fill your role more effectively.
- Develop policies and by-laws.
- Relate professionally with staff members.
- Manage board meetings more productively.
- Understand legal and ethical requirements of the Board.
- Better understand the need for ongoing planning.
